

LandE's first Blog

Posted At : February 5, 2009 1:16 PM | Posted By : name

Related Categories: General Information

I hope that over time this blog will be useful to those who become www.loveandencourage.com members. I will provide the best information and if I don't know I hope to point you in the right direction. Our children are our most important part of our lives along with being in a couple. I still am always in awe of seeing little children - developing - learning. I haven't lost that curiosity, and joy of interacting and learning from them in over 30 years as a clinician. The awesome parents who don't give up. It has always been a privilege to work for you and your children. I hope www.loveandencourage.com will become one of your sources of good information and a community of caring adults who have the responsibility of helping children be their best. Thank You.

Glenn Thomas BCD, LCSW