

Research and loveandencourage.com

Posted At : February 28, 2009 11:25 AM | Posted By : name
Related Categories: www.loveandencourage.com and Research

I'll be exploring the differing research articles that speak to why loveandencourage.com can help your child's behavior in future blogs.

loveandencourage.com behavior modification in the form of daily behavior charts and point/token for children with ADHD is the only nonmedical treatment with large scientific evidence base. It is recommended by:

- CHADD: National Resource Center on AD/HD
 - National Institute of Mental Health NIMH
- American Psychological Association Task Force on ADHD
 - American Medical Association
 - Department of Health and Human Services
- National Association of School Psychologists
 - Surgeon General

There are also promising studies for using daily behavior charts and point/token for children with autism.